

Sustainability & Human Capital

Our sustainability through safety and “human capital” builds on the evolving business approach of “Doing Well By Doing Good!” and creating “real returns and shared” value. We work with clients to effectively communicate to stakeholders their safety performance and support their community “license to operate” their business.

By implementing effective sustainability initiatives using specified global standards and guidelines such as ISO and SASB accounting standards, the Global Reporting

Initiative and Integrated Reporting. Our clients checklist for “safety+sustainability” helps assess your organization’s sustainability readiness through a detailed review, plan and implement process.

Our specially designed tools help organizations to apply three types of self-evaluation assessments:

- What does sustainability mean to my company and realizing leading safety performance?
- Is safety material to my company as a sustainability initiative and human capital priority?
- Transparency in the sustainability reporting world of safety performance, is my organization prepared?

Our complete sustainability and safety checklists and process help to review your organization’s readiness and identify opportunities for safety in the global sustainability context.

Our comprehensive tools and processes help to plan, do, check and act on the implementation of safety & sustainability in their company.
